HARTFORD HIGH SCHOOL
HARTFORD, WIS

WATKINS

NOW as our attention is focused on the construction of the new high school building, it is an appropriate time to call to mind those people who have built the tradition that is Hartford High School.

Through those pillars which frame the entrance to our school, have passed over three and one-half thousand students, graduated, and with the background necessary to reach the goals they have set for themselves. Doctors, lawyers, politicians, teachers, good parents, and sound citizens are among the alumni, of which Hartford High is so proud.

Behind every successful student is a good teacher, and Hartford High School students have been privileged to have had the advantages that only well qualified and dedicated teachers can endow.

Teachers and students working together can make an educational institution an effective one, if they have proper direction. In this respect Hartford High has been truly blessed. Her students have been taught the true values of education and have been given the necessary guidance that is the result of a capable administration.

Thus, as we watch the construction of the new Hartford High School, we of the Oriole Staff would, in a sense, dedicate the Nineteen-Sixty Oriole to the alumni, the students, the faculty, and the administrators who have built Hartford High.

Faced with a host of problems, but never doubting that they will be solved, Mr. Boll looks over the blueprints for the new Hartford High School building. Mr. Boll's day starts early and ends late. He not only supervises the 35 member faculty, and the maintenance staff, but feels both an obligation and a responsibility to be available to the 700 students when the need arises. Mr. Boll is well informed concerning education, having served in the position of principal for twenty-three years. His philosophy of education is that schools must serve effectively, the needs of those individuals who wish to use them.

The guidance office is always a very busy place for many seniors, as Jo Ann Zurn and Mary Rose Leach can testify. For those who are attending college, Mr. Hammond is the man to see. In addition to helping many students in this respect, Mr. Hammond can help the busy, bothered, and bewildered student find the program in high school which is best suited to his needs and abilities.

Answering the phone, making announcements, typing letters, completing necessary records, keeping the school running, Miss Collins is to be seen daily in the high school office. Regardless of her overwhelming responsibilities, Miss Collins (Jean) still manages to liven up the office with her cheery smile and willing ways.

WE LEARN

To use language with skill . . .

You can see the "devilish" gleam in Mr. Dunk's eye as he passes back a test on "Julius Caesar." In this case Shakespeare notes on the board were no help--they refer to "Macbeth," a senior prize? When not busy playing such (ghoulish) tricks, Mr. Dunk advises both the Oriole and the National Honor Society.

Giving Sue Reichert a helping hand with her grammar is Mr. Coleman, junior English teacher. When not discussing commas or the interesting aspects of witch hunting (in American literature, of course), Mr. Coleman manages to keep the football team and those "mat" boys on their toes.

Mr. Benka, who teaches freshman and sophomore English shows a group of his youngest students how reading comprehension can be improved. Mr. Benka, a noted hunter and social lion (no longer a social wolf) is also a football and golf expert.

In addition to advising the Thespian Society and directing school plays (the remnants of which can be seen on the window sill), Mr. Buchholtz enjoys teaching the fine art of speech to his freshman and senior classes. Astrid Brenner and Ralph Bartel listen with ears wide open as he explains the fine points of good drama. Mr. Buchholtz's favorite role, by the way, is "Poppa."

... ours and theirs

Appreciative of good music and books, Mr. Buetow tries to implant this same love of culture in his students of English 12 and of Latin. As advisor to the Latin Club and coach of the debate squad, he's kept busy, but still finds time for his "constitutional" walks. Perhaps, it is during these, that he thinks up his little quizzes.

No foreigner to the romance languages, Miss Patti ably instructs prospective users of Spanish in the speechways of South and Central America. Miss Patti also teaches freshman English and directs the publication of the Orange and Black.

Out of the many books heaped on his desk, Mr. Stracka finds numerous topics to interest his civics classes. Armed with a keen personality and sense of humor, he's ready to battle with the most complicated of topics. A Hartford High great himself, Mr. Stracka is training our future "stars" in football, track, and freshman basketball.

A civics and world history teacher, and an avid reader, Miss Keller also shares some of the library duties with Miss Buckley. Her ability in forensics has been one of the reasons that Hartford has maintained its consistently high forensic achievement.

To be a better citizen, to analyze, to act

Teaching seniors about the problems, past and present, of our economic and social world, is Mr. Giebel's primary academic activity. To test the acquired knowledge of his students in U. S. History or in economics and social problems, he often "surprises" them with his traditional one-question test.

Miss Roob, a recent and respected addition to our faculty, directs a class of English students in its search for ideas and ideals. Miss Roob also teaches social problems, economics, and spends endless hours cheering the cheerleaders on.

Leaning on the speaker stand, is Mr. Breen, a friend to leprechauns and to all loyal Americans, as well. Juniors in U. S. History and seniors in recent history appreciate him not only as a good teacher, but also as a "swell guy." And, although he may profess a terrible fear of his students and their tricks, they feel that their advisor may be the one who is making history, not them.

Miss Fish likes to do experiments of any kind, whether in the science room or in the kitchen. She also enjoys sports and is an enthusiastic Hartford High basketball follower. As a junior advisor, she found this year to be a busy one.

Test tubes, microscopes . . .

Mr. Kalaher has an "enthusiastic" audience, consisting of Sidney Braun, Robert Boller, Wayne Burmeister and others, while our photographer "shoots" him. Mr. Kalaher has taught a mixture of classes this year, including chemistry, shop science, and Mathematics 10. For recreation Mr. Kalaher enjoys anything connected with the outdoors, especially camping. He enjoys most sports, but golf is his favorite.

Teaching biology, advising the seniors, coaching the football team, can all be put on Mr. Robbins' list of activities. But his greatest ability is that of working with students.

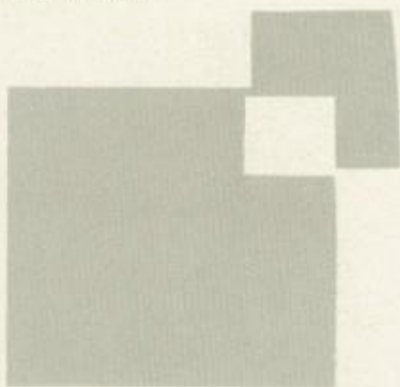

(The dirty blackboard testifies to the activity in this classroom.) Mr. Moren teaches the only eighth period class in school--an "opportunity" group. He is a science and math teacher, freshman class advisor, keeps statistics at football games, and can be found helping out wherever his capable hands are needed.

to understand by experimenting with physical reality

Our own "Jack in the Beanstalk," Mr. Andreck, can usually be found either helping freshmen with their algebra, or sophomores with their biology projects. Promoter and advisor of the Science Club, Mr. Andreck is always climbing higher.

Mr. Klockow, our "attendance officer," also teaches chemistry and physics. His calm, even temper is hardly ever ruffled, except when the attendance isn't taken accurately. Fishing is his favorite way of escaping those test tubes and meter sticks.

Mr. Mahr, although he is our shop teacher, is probably best known for his track accomplishments. He coaches both cross country and track, however, track will always be his favorite. He has been the man behind many successful track men at Hartford High.

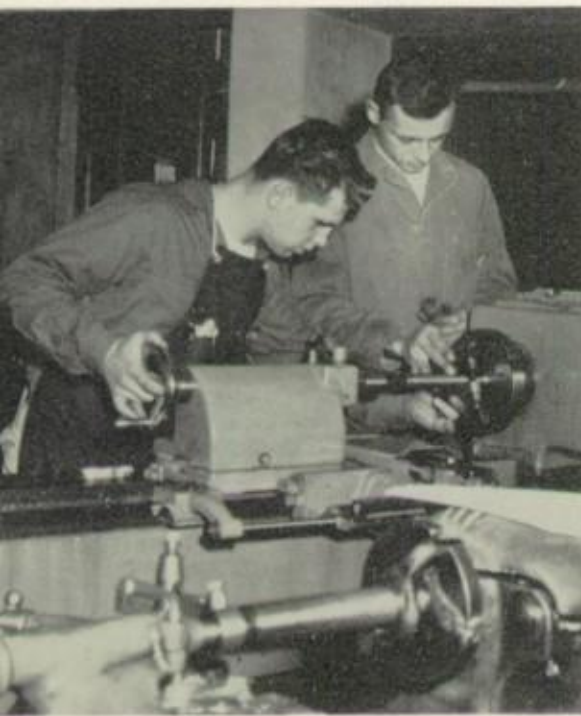

To prepare for the future industrially, agriculturally

As agriculture instructor and F. F. A. advisor, you can bet that Mr. Nicholson will never give a student, like Larry Lepien, a bum steer. His efforts in conservation, along with the achievements of his students, can be pointed to with pride.

A wise and helpful teacher to any boy interested in mechanics and machine tools, that's Mr. Spahn. His knowledge in auto mechanics and in the skilled trades area enable him to prepare his students for their careers after graduation. Interested in current events, in the social and political world, as well as in his students, Mr. Spahn continues to be a worth-while addition to Hartford's faculty.

Dividing the day between directing the Vocational School at night and teaching industrial arts here during the day, it could almost be said that Mr. Schell lives here, and from the training that so many boys have received from him, it certainly seems that his time has been well spent.

"Better homes for the future" could be Miss Axtell's motto, being one of our home economics teachers. Her sound advice to Kathy Sonn is an indication of her interest in students, her skilled hand at sewing, and general competence in her chosen profession.

Miss Washburne claims she has no preference between teaching, cooking, or sewing. However, one thing she does prefer is travel. She has traveled through almost all of the United States and Mexico, her favorite. This year she was a freshman advisor.

Behind the big desk, Mr. Allen, our business education teacher of the last thirty years, sits and ponders over the fate of stenographers, golfmen, and the student council. Mr. Allen is our roving ambassador of good will, a giver of impromptu speeches, and generally a man to be found in the middle of what is important to the student body.

To type, to take shorthand to add to our business sense

"Practice makes perfect" might well be the motto of Harvey Schulz and Kathryn Kaepernick, two of Mr. Underwood's many students. If these students retain their proficiency and interest in business courses, they will move into advance work offered by Mr. Allen or Mr. Underwood.

Keeping a watchful eye over his second hour typing class is Mr. Underwood, first rate in the typing field, as well as in the other commercial areas. His students strive for speed and efficiency in all of his commercial classes, and they can feel certain that the training they receive there will prepare them for a successful career. In addition to his outstanding work in the commercial department, Mr. Underwood is sophomore class advisor, advisor of the Orange and Black, and is a coach of forensics.

Mr. Hoffman is getting that silent plea from Janice Shilling for help on her geometry. Besides geometry, he helps students supply the quantity for x in algebra. A sports enthusiast, Mr. Hoffman coaches both football and basketball.

To solve problems by organizing information

"Think" is a short expression, but it just about sums up the basic philosophy of Mr. Halverson. In addition to being an inspired math teacher, he has a deep interest in world problems. Mr. Halverson can usually be found in his room correcting tests or possibly aiding a student in distress during his free hours. Even after school hours he is often involved with selling tickets at athletic events.

Simultaneous equations, quiet study halls, all can be figured in Mr. Lorenzen's head. But be it mathematics or just good advice, Mr. Lorenzen is always out to help you in a big way.

The quotation on the board is only one of the numerous ones which have been supplied by Miss Knoll throughout the year. Miss Knoll directs all the choral music and passes on her love of classical music to her music appreciation class. She is an advisor of Tri-M, the sophomore class, and the National Honor Society.

To add a further measure to the appreciation of the best

"And the band played on" when Mr. Schneider stepped upon the conductor's stand. This is a very familiar scene to the 65 members of the H. H. S. Band. Besides conducting the band, Mr. Schneider also conducts sectionals and rehearses ensembles. He plays just about every instrument, but his favorite is baritone horn.

Mr. Howard, a new addition to our music department this year, does a lot of work helping to iron the "bugs" out of different sections of the band and numerous ensembles. Mr. Howard himself is a very fine trombonist, clarinetist, and piano player (although he does not play them all at once).

Mr. Beatty, our boys' physical education teacher is also a confirmed hunter, and this interest probably had something to do with the organization of the rifle safety course in phy. ed. Mr. Beatty coaches the A-basketball team and is an all-around sportsman himself. He also holds--and very capably fills the position of Hartford High School Athletic Director.

To build a body that is in rhythm with its potential

Although she teaches sports of all kinds, Miss Weinand likes basketball the best. She is the advisor of the organization which always seems to win first place for their Homecoming float, G. A. A. She is also a sophomore class advisor. One of her hobbies is raising Chihuahuas.

Miss Buckley (shown with student librarian Karen Schuster) is always willing to help a student in distress to find needed reference material or just a good book. In fact, in her sincere enthusiasm for reading, she has been known to almost bewilder the student with her numerous suggestions. Along with her duties as our librarian, Miss Buckley capably directs the forensic program and even finds time to help a Latin student unscramble part of a translation, occasionally.

THE LIBRARY a part of every department

Miss Keller, who assists Miss Buckley in the library, helps Mary Steinke find some reference material, as Richard Intermuehle does some recreational reading and Barbara Dukelow selects a new magazine.

SENIORS at last

Like other lucky seniors, Ronald Brinkman gets Karen Schuster's photograph. This exchange of pictures is a common sight as the seniors approach the end of their four years. These little 2 1/2 by 3 1/2 likenesses will bulge many a wallet before June and graduation.

JUNIORS now, but just wait

Class officers Nancy Campbell, secretary; Carol Kunz, treasurer; Oscar Kraft, president; and Roger Schindel, vice-president line up on the front staircase.

The shining top of the counter in Loos's Jewelry Store Reflects the enthusiastic faces of Anna Ohrmundt, Dick Geller, and Carol Frank, as Mr. Loos shows them the selection of junior class rings. The weeks of rushing to get their orders in will be climaxed by the long awaited arrival of the rings just before graduation.

In this candid locker shot, Karen Lepien, Mary Lynn Dummer, Mary Ann Doll, Shirley Funk, and Mary Delaney share a little after-school gossip. Mary Lynn has obviously discovered the tastiness of a padlock.

FRESHMEN new faces, willing hands, eager minds

Rather symbolically the freshman class officers sit on the "lower" back staircase, outside of room 205. Carol Doerfert, treasurer; Julie Heintz, secretary; Astrid Brenner, president; and Jerome Zielinski, vice-president serve as first representatives of the group, that is the class of '63.

Confronted with the trophy case in the main hall, these freshmen Jeanine Kuenstler, David Schumacher, Janice Nehm, and Barbara Monroe realize that they have something to live up to. Judging from the sparkle in their eyes, they are determined to do their best to fill future trophy cases with more of the same.

An interested community watches as . . .

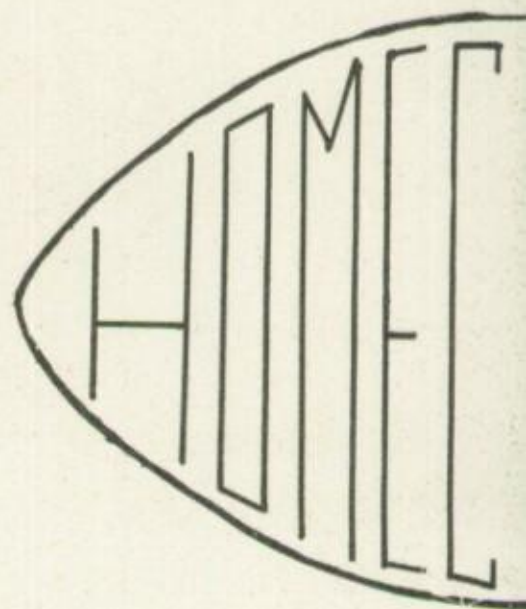

Electrician, store owner, housewife, or parent, the citizen of the community begins to hear of, watch and attend the activities of the high school in the fall. Throughout the year, community interest shows itself in many ways: the local newspaper, through its coverage of high school activities; the many merchants who allow high school posters to be displayed in their windows, and who show even greater cooperation and understanding at homecoming; and the many citizens of the community who attend football games, cross country and track meets, choral and band concerts, plays, basketball games, and dances. Loyal spectators, a column in the newspaper, the sound of applause—all are important to the student.

An interested community creates greater incentive for better performance and greater effort from the student body. Better achievement and greater effort from the students will result in an inspired high school; for when a school excels in its activities, the sense of pride and accomplishment carries over into the academic area. When morale is high, learning is more efficient. And, obviously, a better high school increases the prestige of the community. By supporting the high school, the community is helping both the high school and itself. The two are inseparable.

Amid the fall of autumn leaves, the glow of October moonlight, and the scent of fresh cut hay, a Hayride, the annual Homecoming Dance, jogged into H.H.S. gym. On the haywagon throne Queen, Janice Konrath, and King, Paul Thielman, reigned over their court as the Top Hatters played dreamy, danceable music for eager ears and happy feet. The court, including representative of the four classes, with ladies in luscious formals and gents in handsome suits, led the grand march which highlighted the evening. All joined in the march, sipped at the punch bowl, gossiped at the intimate little tables, and danced a wonderful night away.

Our varsity football team managed to create many exciting moments for the loyal Hartford Fan. Doesn't everyone remember the valiant attempt to come from behind in the Watertown game, which saw one of the best performances by our line; or the midseason Columbus (their homecoming) game where an alert offense and a hard hitting defense jelled for a 12-0 victory; or the final home game against our arch-rival West Bend, when our rugged defense held the usually high scoring Badgers to a mere six points, up to the final seconds of the first half. Unfortunately the lights failed with Hartford in possession and the game was recorded as a loss for the misfortune plagued Orioles. A numerically small squad was kept from a more successful season by injuries to senior players: Wayne Burmeister, Clarke Lambert, Allan Rettler, and Dick Hulbert, and to Oscar Kraft, Dennis Burg, and Jerry Borowski.

Cross Country

Cross country, as a long distance running sport, challenges the runner in speed and endurance. This fall, late golfers, taking advantage of the bumper crop of apples, watched our boys getting in shape for the tough season ahead of them. The crisp autumn air added briskness to the boys' strides as they raced the 2.2 miles over the golf course. Any running sport like cross country, one of the more strenuous sports, serves as basic training for other sports' programs.

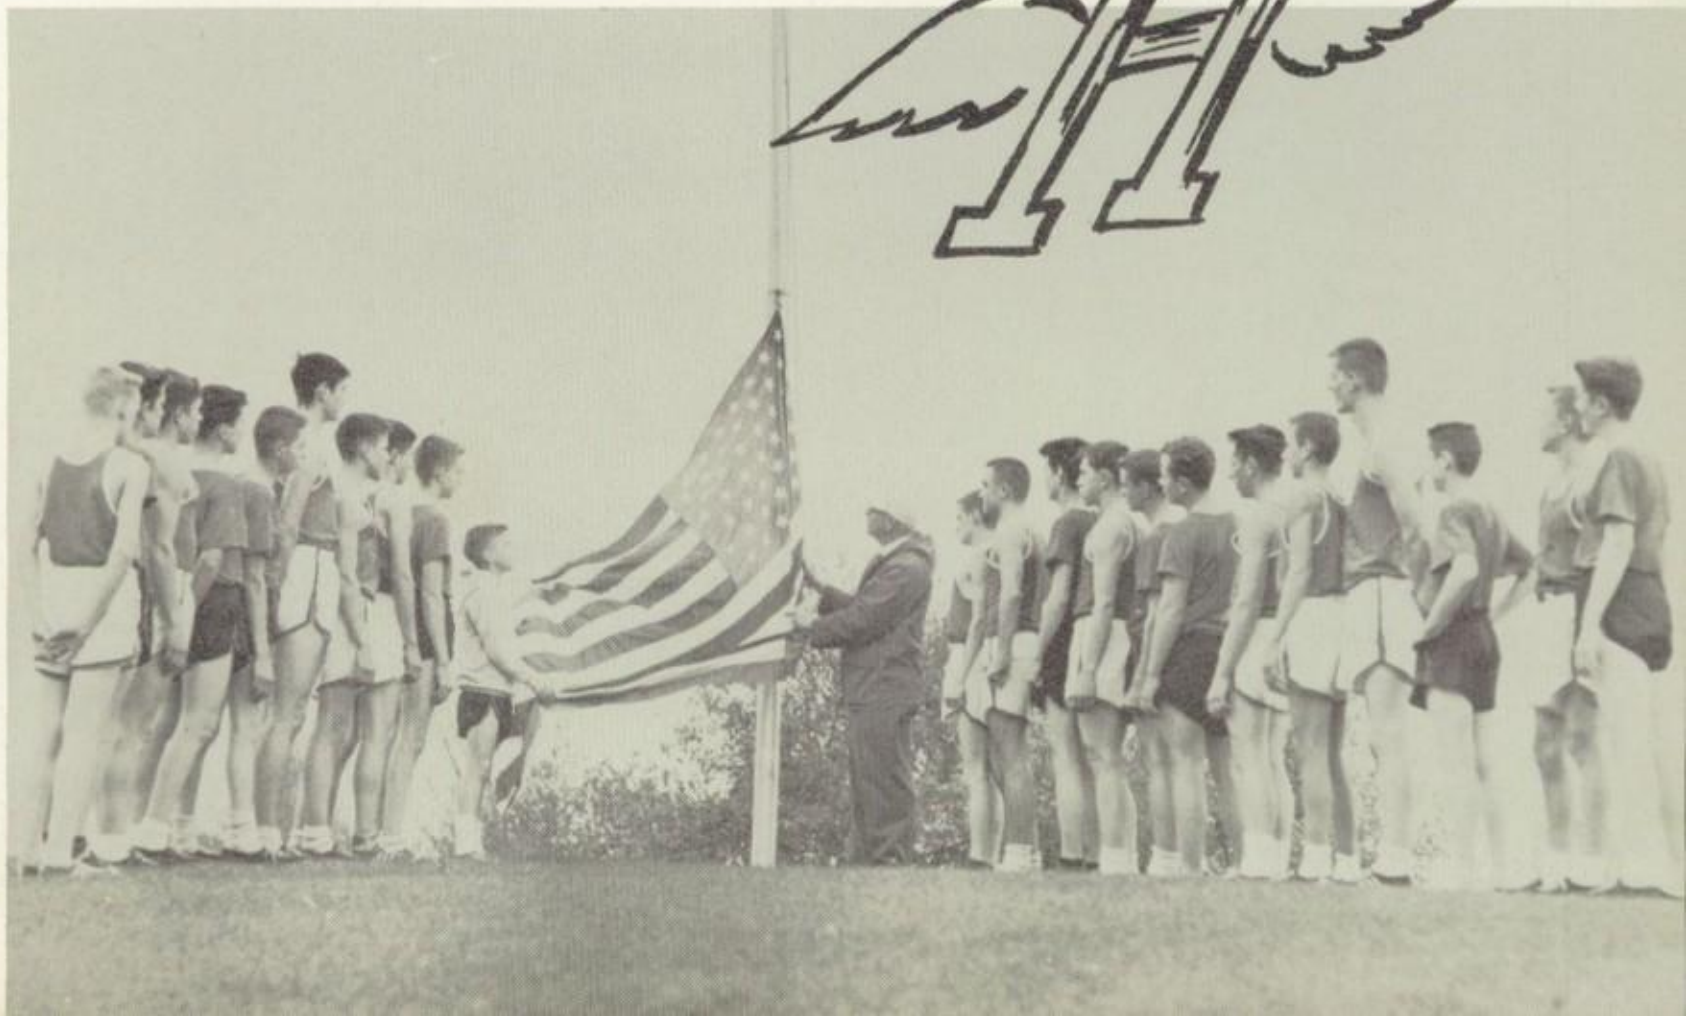

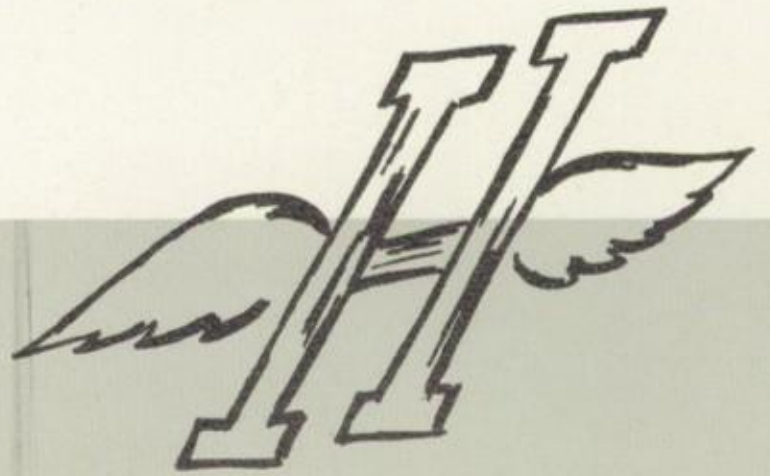

Mr. Mahr, as coach and devoted fan, was especially pleased this year with the B team, which he considered outstanding. The Varsity also compiled a good record for being a "green" team.

The Student Council consists of selected representatives of classes and organizations who share the responsibilities of governing, and who strive toward success in all council activities, ranging from basketball game dances to discussion of school ethics. The council has sponsored school assembly programs, has raised money for scholarships, and has entertained freshmen at their "get-acquainted" party. Although the Student Council does sponsor "fun" activities, it retains its primary function, which is to promote co-operation between the administration and the student body.

LIBRARIANS assist their fellow students

"Where can I find the latest hot rod book?" "Have you got Ann Emery's new book on reserve for me?" "Can you suggest a good biography for me to read?" "Would you get me the March, 1957 issues of Time?" These are some of the questions student librarians answer during the course of a day. Besides answering questions and aiding students in selecting and locating books of their choice, the student librarian performs his regular duties of stamping, renewing, and cataloguing books. A student librarian never has a "dull moment" as he performs helpful services for his fellow-students.

President, Sandy Lackas; Secretary, Marilyn Lau; and Treasurer, Madeline Buckley select books for themselves (above), while Bob Semler assists Lynne Murray in finding a book (right).

Thespians

To promote achievement, excellent, and interest in dramatic presentations is the goal of the National Thespian Society. An educational, honor, and service organization, the society was organized three years ago in Hartford to advance dramatic arts in our school. Evidence of achievement can be seen in its annually increasing membership. Under President, Tom Luckiesh; Vice-President, Don Bauman; Secretary, Mary Leach; and Treasurer, Nan Dillon; the Thespians have strived this year to serve as promoters and committee chairmen in play productions, led by their motto: "Act well your part; there all the honor lies."

... learn through performance

Hartford was well represented this fall in the one-act play competition with Jacob's classic, "The Monkey's Paw." Under the direction of Mr. Buchholtz, the play received an "A" rating in Little Ten competition, which enabled the cast to move to the district meet at Brookfield.

A successful play, as this one-act production was, can be produced only by a hardworking stage crew and nightly rehearsals, with a cast eager to create.

Mr. Buchholtz and his cast and crew still had many nights of rehearsals ahead of them, when the large picture you see below was taken. As usual their effort proved rewarding, both to themselves and to their audience, at the presentation of this year's all-school play, "Meet Me In St. Louis."

When Mr. Buetow's Latin students have finished conjugating a few verbs or declining their nouns or adjectives, they do find time for some group activities. The Homecoming parade saw some ingenuity on the part of the Latin students with their entry of two "Marshmallow Men." Spring always finds the groups of Latin students competing with each other in a fast-moving game of baseball, in which the first year neophytes are "supposed" to lose graciously to the second year students.

LATIN and SPANISH students socialize

Glancing toward the southern side of the Rio Rubicon, we see that the Spanish Club, under the direction of Miss Patti, has again participated in various group activities throughout the year. The club was represented by a float in the Homecoming parade, and planned on seeing the traditional Spanish play at Mount Mary College. To conclude the year's activities, the Spanish students have a picnic before the summer recess commences.

Our basketball team directed by Coach Beatty with the able assistance of Dale Kunz and John Kofel was at times more than a match for the leading teams in the conference. Our greatest victory was over Mayville, who up until then, had been undefeated. It was during this game that Mickey Hesprich, a senior forward, tied a conference record by scoring 40 points. On the next evening we went on to beat Nicolet 79-72 and following in quick succession were victories over: Berlin, 56-29; Columbus, 66-49; and Horicon, 78-64. Unfortunately, these along with a win over Kewaskum, 68-48, in tournament play at West Bend were the only bright spots in an otherwise not so bright season.

During the winter season the intramural basketball teams again swung into fast and furious action. These teams gave many boys, who might not otherwise have had a chance, the opportunity to enjoy playing basketball. earn honors for themselves and for H. H. S.

When our varsity debaters closed their file boxes for the last time this season, they and their coach, Mr. Buetow, could look upon their record with a great deal of pride. Hartford's debate team met, and competed successfully with, the largest schools in the state. At the N.F.L. district meet they tied for first place with Kenosha, thus coming within an eyelash of going to the national tournament in California. They survived the district meet, in spite of their drawing an incredibly strong schedule, and then made a sweep of six victories in the sectional to earn the coveted honor of competing in the state tournament.

Following in the footsteps of the varsity team, and compiling a long list of victories on the way, were members of the second A team and the B team.

B-TEAM: M. Kehr, A. Christenson, J. Altmann, R. Sell

The 1960 Hartford Forensic team carried home the Little Ten Forensic Championship for the seventh time in eleven years. The twelve A's and two B's the Hartford Forensic team won, in outscoring its nearest opponent by five points, meant twelve representatives for Hartford at the District Meet in Cedarburg. Seven students (pictured at right) represented Hartford at the state meet, and six of them received A ratings.

Hartford Forensic teams are "crowned" twice

Members of the Little Ten Championship team (below, right) were: Janice Konrath, memorized declamation; Madeline Buckley and Judy Cerutti, original oratory; Mary Leach and Kay Nicholson, non-original oratory; Carol Weinert and Petra Christiansen, interpretive reading; Bill Campbell and Mary Casely, extemporaneous speaking; Janice Schilling, extemporaneous reading; Ann Kofel and Oscar Kraft, four minute speech.

Seniors entertain at a SNO-BALL

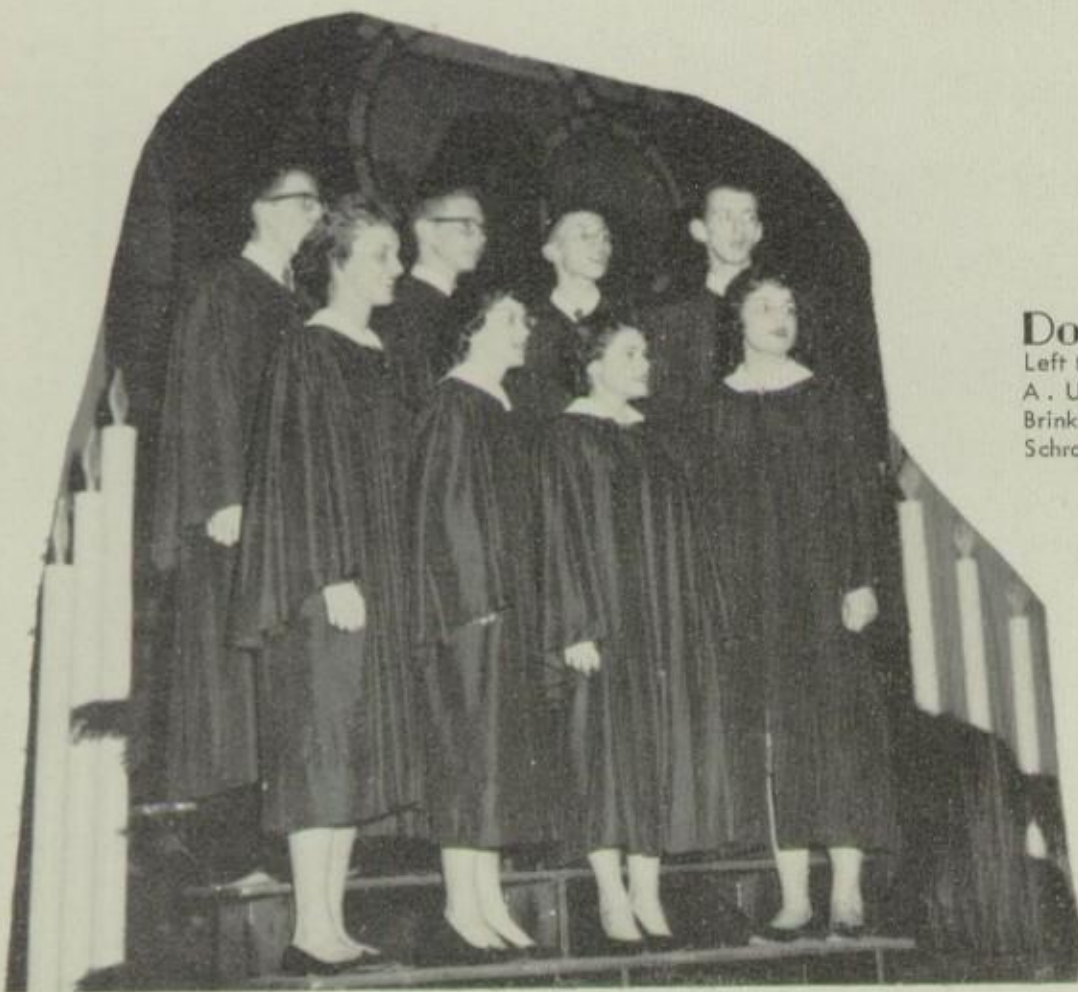

This year the Seniors gave everybody a chance to doubly enjoy New Year's Eve. Since the Sno-Ball was held so close to New Year's Eve (January 2), the decorations consisted of streamers, confetti, paper hats, and noise makers all of which were suspended from a false ceiling. Before the night was over, many of the dancers wore the paper hats. Also contributing to the holiday atmosphere were the flocked Christmas trees which stood in the corners of the gym. Steve Swedish and his band once again played many favorite songs, and everyone left feeling that the Sno-Ball was a perfect ending to a fun-filled Christmas vacation.

"Oh, Hartford High, our faithful friend, we offer thee a song." The choral department, under the direction of Miss Knoll, has offered many songs for the enjoyment of both the students and the community. The Christmas Concert, which featured the entire choral department--the Mixed Chorus, Advanced Girls' Chorus, Boys' Chorus, and Freshman Girls' Chorus--presented an appropriate introduction to the Christmas season, and a beautiful Christmas gift to the community.

Besides the annual Christmas and Spring Concerts, the Mixed Chorus presented several assemblies for the student body, and sang an exchange concert at Ripon High School. The choral department also participates in both the Solo and Ensemble Festival, and the Band and Chorus Festival. The choruses have contributed much to the spirit of Hartford High School.

Our track squad was not particularly strong, but we had a well-balanced team. The long distance men were led by Seniors; George Schroeder and Ron Brinkmann; the sprinters by Paul Schulteis and Ray Gilbertson; in the field events by shot-putter, Tom Sanger. Everyone was encouraged and coached to do their best by Coach Mahr. The Freshmen and Sophomores, under the leadership of Mr. Stracka, proved themselves a potentially strong varsity, especially in the field events.

GOLFers strike while the iron is hot

M. Epprecht, R. Obenberger, J. Van Alstine, prepare for a few practice shots.

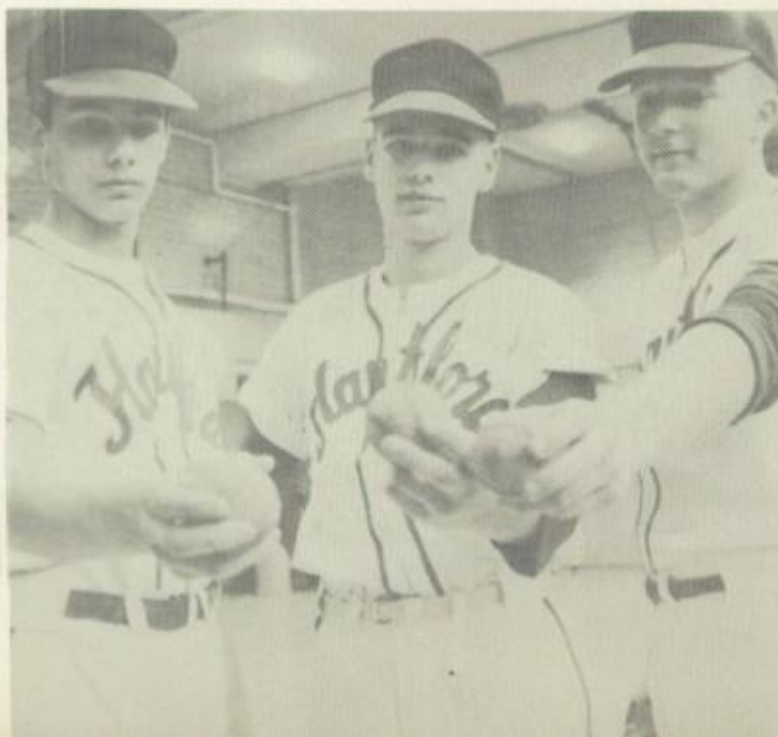

This year there was more enthusiasm for golf than there has been in past years. Thirty boys turned out at the beginning of the season, which meant that quite a few had to be eliminated. The A and B teams, each made up of six boys, were chosen from the sophomores, juniors, and seniors. In order to give freshmen, who would ordinarily get "left at the tee" a better chance to play; a freshman team was formed. Mr. Allen coaches the A team and Mr. Benka coaches the freshman and B team.

The baseball team had a very successful season last summer. With hard hitting and excellent defensive playing, they emerged Little Ten Champs, their over-all record being seven wins and two losses. Their fine playing was further evidenced by the fact that they beat the state champions, Oconomowoc, in a non-conference game. The outlook again appears good for this season as the squad will consist of returning veterans and able newcomers, such as G. Schlieve pictured at lower left and G. Wiser pictured at lower right.

Students see SCIENCE in action

The Science Club, a new organization in our high school, has made much progress this year. It was organized, under the direction of Mr. Andereck, to get students interested in science. Since a background in other subjects is needed to carry on scientific experiments, interest is aroused in other school work as well.

The Science Fair (pictured above) was a big undertaking of the club this year. Ronald Sell and Steve Reed proved to be the most scientific-minded and won in the local fair. They then entered their projects in the Science Fair at Marquette University on April 9. This experience was most interesting to these two boys, as well as to the whole club.

ORANGE AND BLACK

You can always learn the latest happenings in the Orange and Black, our school newspaper. Under the direction of Miss Patti and Mr. Underwood, the staff, composed of sophomores, juniors, and seniors, report the latest news articles and feature stories.

The main objective of a school paper is to give students training in journalism, as well as in photography and advertisement. The two awards presented to staff members are the Quill and Scroll and the N.S.P.A. (National Scholastic Press Association) Award. The Quill and Scroll is awarded to juniors or seniors who are in the upper portion of their class and who have done outstanding work on the school paper. The N.S.P.A. is a progressive award and consists of three pins: the Cub, the Journeyman, and the Star. These much sought for awards are the ultimate in high school journalism.

After many days of preparation, the night of the prom, April 29, finally arrived. The theme of this year's prom, Bali Hai, was carried out in the decoration of both gyms. The tables in the small gym held center pieces of Hawaiian leis. Murals and silhouettes of hula dancers decorated the walls. In the big gym, a large seashell formed the throne. The popular band, which played at the Sno-Ball, made another of its frequent appearances. Steve Swedish and his group played music from a bamboo hut. At approximately 10:30, King Oscar, Queen Judy, and the court of honor were introduced. The traditional grand march, led by the king and queen, followed. The evening passed much too rapidly for most of the happy couples, and everyone must agree that the prom was a success.

Now that you have paged through most of your Oriole, we would like you to meet the people who are responsible for its production. Janice Konrath and Ed Kryszewski, working closely with Mr. Dunk, edited the book. They were assisted by Janet Kuck, the art editor, Kent Krueger, the photographer, and Carolyn Heintz, who wrote, typed, proofread, and made herself available for almost any task. Sandy Portz, Dick Stephenson, Suzanne Vogelsang, and Grace Kohler wrote a good deal of the material that you read. Sport sections were handled by Dale Kunz, Paul Schulteis, and Glen Hesprich. John Osterman headed the business staff, assisted by Sandy Lackas, Ruth Russell, and Ray Zingshiem. Our typists were Judy Wagner and Jean Gault.

The Oriole staff would like to take this opportunity to thank such people as Miss Collins, Mr. Krueger, Mr. Buchholtz, Mr. Boll, Mr. Hammond, Mr. Nicholson, Mr. Underwood, and especially all of the faculty who were considerate and cooperative in the face of necessary inconveniences.

We Honor

Throughout the year these girls have lent encouragement and praise to their fellow students, and now we capture their final cheer in our Oriole, as a tribute to all the accomplishments recorded here. It is fitting, also, that the students of Hartford High record here a cheer of thanks to both the A-team cheerleaders: Mary Basler, Nan Dillon, Sandy Lackas, Bernie Neuberg, Mary Weber, and Judy Cerutti; and the B-team cheerleaders: Pat Semler, Pat Funk, Mary Dummer, Bonnie Loosen, and Jill Beatty.

The final section of our annual is devoted to the various awards that come to deserving students. We have gathered them here for special recognition. We have made the award section the final one, to enable us to print as many of the awards as are available before we meet our final deadline. We regret that, even after taking this precaution, we have been unable to include such high honors as the Spade and Key and the Hartford representatives to Badger Girls' and Badger Boys' State. We would like to congratulate these people, along with the rest of the award winners whom you will meet in the following pages.
